PROFITABLE MEETING FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

At Sunday School Conference. 43 Delegates Present! Interesting Talks Given. Resolutions Passed.

Irvington, Ky., Aug., 20, (Special)—The Boys and Girls Sunday School Conference, which convened here Wednesday evening and closed Thursday evening, was one of the most instructive and profitable meetings of its kind that has ever been held in this county. This is the first of what is hoped to be an annual conference.

There were 43 delegates present.

The girls meetings were conducted by Miss Frances Grigsby, of Louisville, in the Methodist church. At the meeting, Thursday afternoon, Miss Tula Babbage, Cloverport, was elected to act as President and Miss Marion Kincheloe, as Secretary. Miss Babbage gave a very interesting talk on "Mid-week Activities" and Miss Kincheloe's subject was "What Our Sunday School Teachers Expect of Us." Miss Grigsby then gave some suggestions on "A Forward Step."

The girls elected their officers, who are: Miss Tula Babbage, President; Miss Ruby Haynes Hook, Vice Pres; Miss Marion Kincheloe, Secretary, and Miss Ila Payne, Treasurer.

The Boys Conference met at the Baptist church the same afternoon and were under the leadership of Mr. Clarence Wright, of Chicago. They had a very valuable meeting and elected the following officers: Byron DeJarnette, President; George Piggott, Secretary and Treasurer.

Thursday evening, a banquet was held at the school building, for the boys and girls. Miss Eliza Piggott introduced the speakers and with her bright and ready wit, she made a charming toast mistress. Mr. Wright gave the address of the evening and Miss Grigsby followed with an interesting story. Miss Ila Payne gave a toast to the boys and Byron DeJarnette responded to the girls. A delightful musical program was arranged. Miss Guedry Bramlette rendered a violin solo accompanied by Miss Julia Lyon. Patriotic songs were sung.

Miss Tula Daniel, of Hardinsburg, was one of the visitors at the conference.

Resolutions.

1.—Resolved that we, the delegates to this first Secondary Convention, extend our thanks to the good people of Irvington for the entertainment of delegates.

Committee

Women Are Getting

Ready to Replace Men.

The September Woman's Home Companion says:

"Women are preparing to take the places of men in almost every line of work. A New York corporation, whose clerical force had been depleted by the call to arms, advertised for fifty intelligent women capable of earning twelve dollars a week. Ten thousand letters were received from as many women. The ages ranged from high school girls to grandmothers. The best papers in the test were turned in by a college graduate and a grandmother, respectively.

"In many of the larger cities young women with steady nerves and a taste for mechanics are being tested as elevator operators."

Custer Visitors

Mr. James Mitcham and Mr. Fox Gray of Custer, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Taylor and Mrs. Eliza Taylor, of Hardinsburg, Monday.

They report fine crops in that section and that more than half of the tobacco crop has been sold at from $12 to $15 round one or two crops bringing $16.

They were also pleased to report a fine meeting in progress at the Methodist church, conducted by the Rev. Johnson of Hardinsburg.

SOLDIERS WILL ENJOY WATERMELONS

At Camp Shelby. Near the Bathing Beach.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 22.—The prospects are that the National Guardsmen of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia who will compose the units at Camp Shelby, will get here in time to enjoy eating many a luscious watermelon, for which this section of the South is famous.

The watermelon season is not yet over, and the visiting boys in khaki have some rare treats in store for them in the way of watermelon feasts.

But watermelon is not the only fruit of Mississippi soil that the soldiers will enjoy. Later will come the delicious Satsuma oranges, grown between here and other Mississippi coast cities, speaking of foods, the coast is only 70 miles away, and it will be possible for the men to have shrimp, fresh fish and crabs included in their daily "rations."

A trip to the coast will be one that the soldiers can enjoy. At any of the coast cities bathing facilities are excellent, and boating and fishing are attractive features. It is probable that many soldiers will run down to the coast as well as visitors who come to see them during their stay at Camp Shelby.

Suit For Reinvestment.

The Bank of Hardinsburg and Trust company as Trustee, has filed suit in circuit court against Elizabeth Sauer Breidenbach and E. H. Breidenbach, her husband asking for the sale of her four-tenths interest in 125 acres of land located near Grissom's Landing and for a reinvestment of the proceeds in sound securities.

Under the will of Fred Walter, who died in Breckinridge county in 1904, the sum of $4,000 was devised to Elizabeth Sauer Breidenbach, with instructions that the executors of his estate, A. B. Skillman and W. G. Smart, should invest the money in sound securities, and the interest payable annually to the devisee. The plaintiff who later succeeded the former executors stated that the money was invested in a farm, four-tenths of which belongs to Elizabeth Saur Breidenbach that her interest in the farm be sold, as the sum of $5,000 can be realized at this time, and the money could be reinvested which would bring her an annual interest of $300. The plaintiff asks that this be done.—Owensboro Inquirer

Visitors Complimented

Mrs. Larkin Gibson gave a party Thursday evening in compliment to her house guests, Miss Eloise Hendrick and Miss Susie Squires of Hardinsburg.

The house was attractively decorated in yellow and white garden flowers. Punch was served during the evening, supplemented with ice cream and cake which carried out the color scheme.

The guest list included: Misses Mary Christina Hamman, Eva Wroe, Eva Jolly, Lida May English, Maud Barry, Eleanor Ried, Kathleen Squires, Sarah Fallon, Helen Clark and Mary Gibson of Prospect, Ky. Messrs Leonard Weatherholt, Alfred Wroe, Curtis Weatherholt, Henry O'Connell, Julius Hardin, Samuel Penner, Billy Ried, Ed. Clark, Robert Hamman and Samuel E. Conrad.

URGENT CALL FOR KNITTED ARTICLES.

Comes From Major Murphy in France. Wants 200 Articles From This Chapter.

The Chairman of the Cloverport Red Cross Society received a telegram from J. J. O'Conner, director of Central division with the enclosed cablegram from Major Grayson Murphy in France which read:

"Last winter broke the record for cold and misery among people here. Expressably dread coming winter finding us without supplies to meet the situation, urge you on behalf of our soldiers and those of our allies who will suffer in their frozen trenches, and also thousands of French and Belgian refugees, re-patriots being returned through Switzerland to France everyone looks to America. Begin shipping at once, 1,500,000 each of warm knitted articles requested. They must come before cold weather and in view of shortage of fuel and other discomforts they will be of incredible value in both military and civilian work."

The Cloverport Chapter's allotment of this requirement is 50 sweaters, 50 mufflers, 50 pairs wristlets, 50 pairs socks.

The members of the Society will decide this week what they will do with the call.

Those taking the vows were: Sister Mary David, Kendall, Louisville, Ky.; Sister Mary Joseph Peterson, St. Mary, Ky.; Sister Imelda Livers, Finley, Ky.; Sister Marietta Fenwick, Uniontown, Ky.; Sister Hilary O'Brien, Owensboro, Ky.; Sister Veronica Benedict, Louisville, Ky.; Sister Mary Edna Robinson, Morganfield, Ky.; Sister Angelina Mattingly, Cloverport, Ky.; Sister Paul Joseph Mattingly, St. Joseph, Ky.; Sister Ophelia Raley, Morganfield, Ky.; Sister Josetta Cravens, Raywick, Ky.—Owensboro Inquirer.

The Federal Land Bank.

The Federal Land Bank of Louisville has received applications for loans amounting to more than $8,000,000 and has approved of applications of over $3,500,000.

Ohio and Indiana jointly represent about one third of the loans approved, Kentucky one third and Tennessee one third. The great bulk of the applications come from farmers who own thin land and at least ninety per cent of the applicants want to borrow from the Federal Bank to pay off a debt already on the land. The long term for which money is loaned by the Federal Land Bank and the low rate of interest encourages the cancelling of mortgages in favor of the unusual terms and conditions upon which money can be secured on the Farm Loan act.

The Elizabethtown Farm Loan Association was the first in the district to get its charter, the first to get a loan and the first to have its applications approved, titles perfected and money paid to the borrowers.

The Bank at Louisville is being operated more economically than the average of twelve banks in the United States and has loaned more than the average. It is expected that after a year's operation the other purpose for which these banks were primarily organized will be manifest. That is, money will be more generally borrowed for farm improvements, the improvement of live stock and in greatly increasing the number of persons engaged in agricultural pursuits.

The bonds are being made a gilt edge investment by the strict scrutiny of all lands where application for loans are made and in no instance is any amount of more than fifty per cent on the actual cash value granted by the Bank.—Elizabethtown News.

TO THE VOTERS OF BRECKINRIDGE COUNTY.

Custer, Ky., Aug. 14-17.
Having received my nomination for Sheriff of Breckinridge County, in the primary without opposition, I now wish to thank the republicans for thus honoring me.

Should I be elected in November, as I confidently hope to be, I will have been the first Sheriff from my district in a great many years, and for this reason and others my friends every where and especially the people from this side of county and Magisterial District, as well as myself, will most sincerely appreciate it and thank you for it.

Having served you for four years as Deputy Sheriff, I feel that I am acquainted with the duties of this important office, and in that connection, I wish to say that so far, I have associated with me on that ticket, as Duptyes, W. Curt Pate of Cloverport, and William H. Gibson of Sample. Both of these gentlemen have served you in this office during the last four years as associates of mine and I feel sure from information and personal knowledge, that their services have been entirely satisfactory, to their constituents and the tax payers in their respective territories.

Now I wish to appeal to all voters, citizens and taxpayers, regardless of politics, for their support, if they feel that I and we, have made you good public servants and been true to our responsibilities and faithful discharge of our duties. If you will I wish to say for myself and deputies, that it shall be my ambition and purpose to make Breckinridge County the best official of which I am capable.

Thanking you for your kindness in the past and support in the coming campaign, I am, Sincerely Yours,
Adv. Jesse B. Carman.

GETS BACK HIS $55.

Doctor's Money Returned After Going Through Laundry Processes.

Danville, Ill.—Dr. W. A. Surratt of this city is broken of the habit of putting money in his sock, following the temporary loss of $55 in currency a few days ago.

He is now of the opinion that the "women's national" is not a safe place, despite the testimony of hundreds of women to the contrary. The money disappeared in some mysterious manner, and he inserted an advertisement in a newspaper in the faint hope of obtaining some trace of it.

He was surprised when called up on the telephone and informed by the proprietor of a laundry that his money had been found after it had gone through all the processes of the laundry.

My Dear Mr. Murray:

We had your letter which was read in open court, and we were all very much touched by it. In spite of your extreme sickness you were true to the traditions of your family in thinking of others before self. We appreciate the kind invitation to eat dinner at your expense and accept the same with pleasure that will only be marred by your not being able to be with us to act in person as host. We will sorely miss your kindly genial presence. Not only do we, your colleagues, on the Fiscal Court, miss you in our deliberations at this term of the Court, but the whole citizenship of our county will miss your wholesome counsel. They love you for the zeal, vigor and earnestness you have displayed in your attention to the fiscal affairs of the county and we, all of us, most deeply sympathize with you in your protracted illness and pray God, who is most merciful and all wise, to restore you to perfect health, that you may have a long life's happiness in the bosom of your family. Should God in his infinite wisdom see it differently and to those who we must all know it will be given to you to hear that welcome plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." He's A Cloverport Man

Who in Cloverport doesn't know the reliable tax collector? The advice of a man who is so well known as Mr. Chapin should be well heeded. If you are one of the many who suffer from kidney weakness, is there any reason why you should delay following Mr. Chapin's example? Don't wait until dangerous Bright's disease or Dropsy sets in. Mr. Chapin says he found a permanent cure from kidney trouble and a bad back by using Doan's Kidney Pills. Here are his own words.

"Last summer I was down with my back and kidney trouble," says L. V. Chapin, tax collector, Cloverport. "As Doan's Kidney Pills had been recommended to me and seeing their ad in the local paper I got a box at Fisher's Drug Store. In a very short time I was cured and have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills nor any other medicine since. Doan's Kidney Pills do just as is claimed of them."

(Statement given February 17, 1912)
On October 30, 1916, Mr. Chapin said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills made in my case and that I mentioned in my former statement, has been permanent." 60c at all dealers, Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

week, except in case of emergency when said hands may be required to work any number of days in any week or year to meet such emergency, and that all Road Overseers require the road hands in their Districts to comply with this order as required by law.

And whereas at a meeting of the County Board of Education of Breckenridge county, held on the 3rd of March, 1917, it was ordered that an ad valorem tax of 20 cents be levied on each $100.00 worth of property, and a per capita tax or poll tax of $1.00 on each male citizen 21 years of age or over, be levied except such as may be exempt by law, and whereas a copy of said order has been presented to this Court, it is now ordered and directed by the Court that the School Tax for the year 1917, as provided in Section 89 and 99 of the School Laws of 1908, be 20 cents on the $100.00 worth of taxable property and a poll tax of $1.00 on each male citizen, 21 years of age or over, resident of Breckenridge county, except in graded school districts in the county and such other instances as are excepted by law, and a Ye and Nay vote being taken on said motion resulted as follows, to-wit: Esquire Robbins, ye; Keenan, ye; Cox, ye; Heron, ye; Bennett, ye; and Baxter, ye, whereupon said motion is declared adopted and made the order of this Court.

On motion duly made, seconded and carried, Court adjourned until tomorrow at 9 o'clock A. M.

WELCOME!

A cordial welcome is awaiting the delegates and visitors who are coming to our city next week to attend the Breckinridge County Baptist Association. We know that you will do us good and we hope in turn to do something for you that will forever abide in your memories. The latch string to our homes and business houses is on the outside and all you have to do is to pull and walk in and we trust that when you walk out you will say, "It was good to have been there."

For the benefit of those who are not thoroughly familiar with the independent powers who are in a state of war against Germany, we give them here: United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia, Serbia, Montenegro, Belgium, Rumania, Portugal, Greece, Japan, China, Siam, Brazil, Cuba, Panama, Hayti, Liberia, and the little republic of San Marino, on the Adriatic, the oldest state in Europe.

The Princess' of the royal families are worried for fear they will have to suffer the humiliation of not getting married as all the men of the royal families are at the front.

We would say cheer up little Princess, for you will have a number of sisters across the pond who are in the same boat. Misery loves company.

Lloyd George's speech is good for the blues. He gives us very encouraging reports of the Allies at the front, the success of the British troops in Flanders and says the Germans have been slowly retreating during the year of 1917. This all sounds good but what we want to know, how near is the end?

One man is of the opinion that the Germans are waiting to see how strong the U. S. forces will be on British soil, before they will consider any definite terms of peace. If this be the case lets all pick up and go.

It might be suggested to those men who have nothing to do but sit around and discuss how soon the war will end, that they could help bring it to an end sooner if they would do their bit and learn to knit.

We should like to call attention to the fact that all notices of ice cream suppers and other charity entertainments are charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line. Please do not ask us to mention them in the paper gratis.

An appeal is being made to owners of cars to cut out the "joy riding" and pleasure riding in order to save gasoline. It is estimated that the army and navy will need 350,000 gallons of gasoline.

Some folks say that in time of trouble you generally find out who your friends are. If that is so, it will not take Germany very long to count who her friends are.

Don't try to jew the other fellow down on his prices. The only thing to do is to raise your prices then you can pay the other man what he asks.

The President was judicious on entering the war and it looks as if he will be just as judicious when it comes to the peace settlement?

The Council did not see fit to clean the streets during the summer, why not have a fall cleaning and get ready for Mr. Winter?

Look at the label on your paper and see if your time for the Breckenridge News has expired so you can renew.

And manicure his nails.

He'll lay his work aside to brush

Holy Name Society Picnic.

The Holy Name society which consists of the men of the St. Rose Catholic church, gave a picnic for their families last Wednesday at Welcome Hall, the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Frank Carter.

There were twenty-one families represented, each one bringing a basket dinner. The picnicers had such a delightful and happy time that the members concluded to make it an annual affair.

FARM AND STOCK.

Julian Brown sold a car load of hogs and cattle last week. Hogs brought 18 cents and cattle fair prices. He will ship 33 head of cattle this week.

B. A. Robertson sold four head March buck lambs for $67.50.

Worland Carter, of Irvington, was in Louisville last week. He visited the Fern Creek Community Fair to get some pointers on his coming fair at Irvington. Mr. Carter is a very live farmer and community builder. He does things and has other people help him do them. His fair this year will be bigger and better than ever before and it doesn't cost a cent to see it. Mr. Carter is now selling off of an acre of cucumbers $10 worth a day. The acre, he says, will yield him $100.

J. W. Cannon, of McDaniels, sold last week 600 bushels of corn at $2 per bushel.

J. W. Carwile was in Hardinsburg Monday and reported fine crops around McDaniels.

John W. Elder has bought the old Miller homestead on High street for $2,000.

Conrad Simons has bought the Hudson houses on High street for $1,200. Mr. Simons has faith in real estate in Cloverport. He has taken over several pieces of property in the city recently.

Frank Carter has refused $65 for a sow and ten pigs three days old.

A fine shower of rain fell here Tuesday at 1 o'clock p. m. A shower of gold dollars couldn't of helped us more.

The tobacco market in this city and the county over is pretty active. Buyers are plentiful and are offering $15 to $18 round for good crops. Farmers are not inclined to sell even at these figures.

Allie Whitworth, who attended the Skillman sale and brought a fine lunch with him, spied Mr. Babbage and concluded to "save his life" by offering him a sandwich of the good old country ham variety. It has been so long since Mr. Babbage had tasted country ham, that Mr. Whitworth had considerable difficulty in convincing him that it was "ham what am," and not an editor's dream. We thank you, Mr. Whitworth.

The writer has been attending sales in this county for nearly 40 years, and last Saturday at the Skillman sale was the first time that he ever saw corn sell at a sale for $1.86.

Fine Motor Trip.

Dr. W. B. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Wm. Kendall of Irvington had and interesting motor trip last week through Georgia and climbing the Tennessee mountains. They did not have a puncture or break down the first part of the journey.

Dr. Taylor wrote a letter to the Breckenridge News telling of his trip.

"We left Irvington Friday morning, the 10th and drove 265 miles Friday, spent the night at Manchester, Tenn. Left Manchester 9 o'clock Saturday morning for a trip over the Cumberland mountains to Chattanooga which was 75 miles and it took us all day as the road across the mountains was awfully rough. We drove 17 miles across the top of the mountains without seeing a house. Arrived in Chattanooga at 7 o'clock Saturday night to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Henry.

We drove out to Ft. Oglethorpe to see the soldiers drillin' and it was quite a wonderful sight as there were between 35,000 and 40,000 soldiers in camp.

We will go from here to Atlanta, Ga., to spend a few days and will return by the way of Huntsville, Ala., to Nashville and from there on home."

CHANCE FOR MARRIED MEN.

All Those Who Are Dissatisfied May Join Georgia Man's Company.

A regiment of dissatisfied married men is the suggestion that has come from Rome, Ga., to contribute to the gayety of nations and relieve the tension of feeling which absorbs every good American now that a realization has come of what the war will really mean to the United States.

The French, with their wonderful humor and inexhaustible wit in the face of death, have taught the world that fun and the most sublime patriotism can live together, and it is no discredit to Americans that the element of humor enters into the war news as it has done in other countries.

A prominent gentleman of Rome, Ga., whose name is withheld for very obvious reasons and whose wife is said to be a strong woman, announced the other day that, inasmuch as the conscription law is unfair to married men, he was going to raise a company of dissatisfied benefactors.

He is said to have got so many recruits in response to the call for volunteers that his wife called at his office and solemnly informed him that the joke had gone quite far enough.

Four at a Time.
The stork paid a visit to Mrs. Arthur Tremain at Rochester, Mich., and left three girls and one boy.

Matrimonial Candidates.

Among the curious advertisements published in a paper of the Punjab, India, is one of a young man who wishes to marry. He says: "I am of handsome physique and excellent health. My family is descended from the respectable caste of the Khatri. I am twenty-one years old and wish to find a young girl between fourteen and eighteen who has good health, literary tastes and is of good parentage."
Another notice announces the engagement of a lad, eleven years old, "who knows how to speak Hindu, Gur-mukhi, Urdu, Persian and English; who is still in school and does not wish to marry before he is thirteen (3), as he wishes to continue his studies."

BRITISH REVIEW DRIVE ON SOMME

Storm Trenches and Inflict Heavy Casualties.

FIGHTING ON OTHER FRONTS

On the Somme Front, British Forces Raid German Trenches Between the Towns of Lempire and Bony—
Allies Conduct Air Raid.

London, Aug. 20.—An attack on the Somme front in France has been opened by the British. According to an official report issued in London the British forces stormed the German trenches in the neighborhood of Gillemont farm, between the towns of Lempire and Bony. On this same front, the statement says, British raiding parties entered the German positions southwest of Havrincourt and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy.

Regarding this new activity on the Somme, the British statement says: "We carried out a successful local operation early in the morning south-east of Epehy, in which we captured the German trenches in the neighborhood of Gillemont farm and took several prisoners. At night our raiding parties entered the enemy's positions southwest of Havrincourt and returned with a few prisoners after inflicting heavy casualties on the hostile garrison."

"During the night enemy aircraft bombed the British casualty clearing stations. Ten wounded German prisoners were killed. Nine wounded German prisoners were again wounded by German bombs."

None of the war statements has anything to say about the activity in the Belgian or Arras sectors, but considerable fighting is reported on other fronts.

The Paris war office announces that after a violent bombardment of the French positions, the Germans made consecutive attacks on the French trenches in the Priest wood, west of the Muertha and Joselle rivers, and in the Vosges mountains to the east of Badonviller and north of Celles SurPlaine. The assaults were repulsed and the Germans suffered heavy casualties, according to Paris.

Artillery activity is reported on the Aisne front, notably in the sector northwest and east of Rheims.

"Six hundred shells were fired on Rheims, one civilian being wounded," says that French statement. "Our pursuit airplanes displayed prominent activity during the day. Eleven German airplanes fell in flames or were completely destroyed after aerial combats with our pilots. In addition six enemy machines were forced to land within their lines seriously damaged."

"For two nights and a day airplanes bombarded the railway stations at Cortemarck, Thourout, Lichtervelde, Ostend and Cambrai, encampments in the forest of Douthulst, the railway station at Dun-sur-Meuse and munitions depot at Bantheville. A fire was started in the Cambrai station and establishments."

German troops attacked the Russian positions near the village of Stakhov, on the Vilna front, but, according to the Petrograd war office, the attack broke down under the Russian fire.

On the Roumanian front Austro-Germans several times assaulted the Russo-Roumanian lines south of Grozetti, in southwestern Moldavia, but were repelled.

A big offensive has been begun by the Italians against the Austrians in the Isonzo region of the Austro-Italian war theater, and fighting is in progress on a front of thirty miles running from the region of the Talmio to near the head of the Adriatic sea, on the Carso plateau.

ALLIED ARMIES IN RAID

Attack Selzaete, Belgian Town on the Dutch Frontier.

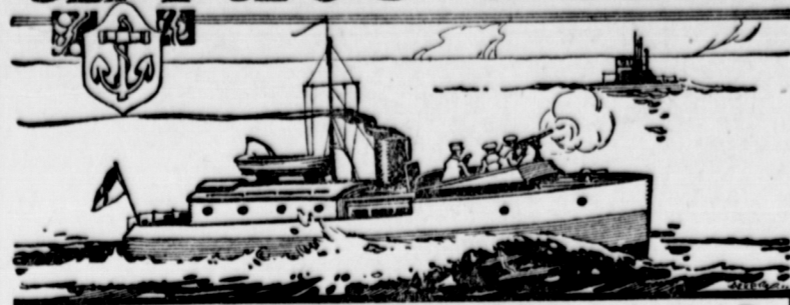

Sas Van Gent, Holland, Aug. 20.—Terrific explosions of bombs dropped by entente allied armies in a raid shortly before midnight on Selzaete, a Belgian town on the Dutch frontier, eighteen miles north of Ghent, awakened all the inhabitants of this town. German anti-aircraft batteries were very active, some of their sharpnel bursting over Sas Van Ghent.

Ghent, which in normal times has a population of 10,000, also was raided by the titente allied aviators.

Gunner Vanishes Overboard.
An Atlantic Port, Aug. 20.—J. L. Squibbs, a navy gunner, detailed to an American steamship that arrived here from Genoa, was reported by the ship officers to have fallen or jumped overboard. He was last seen by members of the crew at 2 p. m. on that date. Squibbs' home was in Joplin, Mo.

Socialist Again Arrested.
Chicago, Aug. 20.—Adolph Germer, national secretary of the Socialist party, has been rearrested on a charge of having violated the espionage law by making a public speech against conscription.

Thrilling Tales of U Boat Hunting, Told by an American Boy

No. 1 Chasing U Boats With Sea Slugs

A SEA SLUG,

PROLOGUE.

The author of this series of four articles is a young American, who has spent most of his time since the war started with the British patrol fleet, taking an important part in helping to organize that branch of the service known as the Sea Slugs (submarine chasers).

He has accumulated a remarkable collection of anecdotes incident to this exciting branch of the service, and many of these were personal adventures in which he took part and which make one of the stirring narratives to come out of the war. He recently returned to the United States to assist the American navy in organizing the same branch of the service and should be of great value because of his experience abroad. So far as known he is the only American who served with the British patrol prior to the advent of our destroyer flotilla in British waters. Of course some of his experiences, of military value to the enemy, cannot be related. At the request of the service publication of his name is withheld.

WE were all sitting around tables in "The Knut" at Keppel's Head, drinking pink gin and "it," "it" being Angostura bitters. We were a crowd of "sea slugs," as those who man the U boat chasers are commonly and unlovingly called by the rest of the service.

"They can talk all they want to about the science of submarine busting," said one of the boys, "but there's just one thing that gets submarines—luck. All the schemes the wise heads devise can't come up to one little piece of good fortune."

"Righto," said a subaltern who had just whispered something into the ear of San, the girl who serves drinks at "The Knut." "You take Max Horton, now, the man who torpedoed the Moltke."

"The whole thing is mostly luck. It's luck when we put a sub, and it's luck when a sub puts anything. I had this yarn straight from Max himself."

"He was submerged in one of our subs, an E boat, 'somewhere under the ocean,' and the plumbing went out of commission. It isn't very pleasant in a submarine anyway. The smells and the stale air when you are running submerged are enough to make many a man sick who never turned a hair at the roughest sea while he was afloat."

"Well, as I was saying, the plumbing went out of commission just as Horton was dressing and had washed up. He hadn't put his trousers on as yet. He ordered the craft to the surface so one of the mechanics could make repairs to the plumbing and meanwhile went on dressing."

Surprised at Seeing Moltke.

"He was standing on one foot while sticking the other through a trousers leg just as the periscope of the submarine stuck out above the surface."

"Suddenly a seaman broke into his cabin and yelled, 'There's a German warship on our starboard quarter, sir!'" "Max kicked himself free of his trousers quicker than you could wink, and in a matter of seconds he was bent over one of the forward torpedo tubes sighting on the vessel ahead of him. The silhouette book showed she was the battle cruiser Moltke."

"Whiz-z-z! sang the torpedo. Bang! went the Moltke. Max submerged again and finished putting on his trousers. Rather clever, don't you think—standing there with his shirt tails dangling and putting a German battleship?"

"That's a good deal like"—began one of the other boys, but before he could finish the sentence a messenger came in and spoke to the "Brass Hat," who was among us, which is to say he spoke to the senior officer.

"Come on, old chappies," said that individual. "We can't wait for the last drink San is bringing. A little job is on our hands."

As we ran down the wharf the men in the chasers started the motors, and by the time we had tumbled pell-mell into the boats they were ready to get away.

Speeding through the Solent, still ignorant of our errand except for the Brass Hat, we passed miles of shipping tied up in the harbor waiting for cargoes to be unloaded.

Later on the Brass Hat, whose boat was leading the line because of his rank, signaled to us that we were after a submarine which a hydroplane had sighted off the Isle of Wight.

The U Boat Chase.

Offshore a short distance was a patrol boat lying very low in the water and flying distress signals. We ran over to her and learned that about an hour before the periscope of a submarine had been stuck up not far from her; then the craft had submerged, appeared again about a mile away and fired four shots, which let in enough water slowly to sink the patrol, which before the war had been nothing but a dirty little trawler.

Finding the crew of the patrol could take care of themselves in their small boats and learning that the submarine had run over to the westward, where we knew chain net traps to be laid, we circled in that direction.

"Whiz-z-z! sang the torpedo. Bang! went the Moltke."

Our powerful motors thrummed evenly. The water seemed to part ahead of us, and the gunners squinted along the surface.

Suddenly off to the west we made out her periscope. Intense joy thrilled our little crews. She was inshore from us. She was between our circular course and the chain nets—in the trap. The periscope we had seen might be a dummy, for a submarine frequently casts loose a phoney periscope to draw fire, but at any rate she must have been between us and the nets if she cut it loose.

Presently, probably after a look around, the periscope suddenly disappeared, and we knew it was a real one with a German U boat on the end of it. The Brass Hat, in his own boat, was, of course, in the lead. That was his prerogative as well as his duty. Like a flock of falcons we were swooping down on the prey.

Abruptly the lead boat comes to a dead stop and lists heavily to starboard. Evidently something is wrong. We see men crawl out over the stern and fish around with boat hooks and poles. Cold as it is one man goes overboard and remains under water so long we could not believe he would come up alive.

We can see the Brass Hat gesticulating as we run in closer. We can't hear what he is saying, but we have a pretty good idea. We've listened to him before when distressed. One of his men signals that the boat has fouled the chain nets. We wouldn't dare cheer, but we are inclined that way. Everybody likes to put it over a Brass Hat, and now there are only five of us to share the glory at the finish. Each of us stands a better chance of being the one to give the submarine its conge.

Circling round in an even smaller radius, we search the water for a periscope, a shadow or the conventional "streak of dirty grease" or "line of bubbles."

Brass Hat Still Stranded.

The Brass Hat is signaling now for us to go over and help him off. Nobody pays any attention to those orders. He wants to run things and get the U boat himself, but we won't give him the chance. Later we will tell him we didn't see his distress signals. Now he tries to direct the procedure from where he is, but we are like a lot of hounds released from restraint. The one idea of our lives is to get that U boat.

All of us have towing torpedoes out. These are bombs on long cables, which are towed astern and sink to a certain specified depth. If the cable fouls anything at all as the boat goes ahead the bomb pulls up to it, and when it bumps it explodes.

We are in line. Suddenly there is a crash and a roar just ahead of us. I am thrown off my feet. Barrels of water splash down into our cockpit and roll off the decks. The bow lifts itself clean for a second. I think that the submarine has blown us up. Perhaps I am dead already.

Then we settle down again, and except for a scared look on the faces of a couple of men and rather nervous, forced jests on the lips of others we are playing ahead just as before.

Nothing has happened except the towing torpedo of the boat in front of us in the line fouled a submerged spar or a bit of wreckage and exploded right under our bow. "If we had been a few yards closer we would never have been there any more."

As we realized what had happened our tongues were loosened, and if the crew of the boat ahead could have heard what we said about them we would have lost their friendship most assuredly.

Way inshore, after a circling chase of perhaps twenty minutes, the submarine came up. She was in such shallow water that she probably was having trouble in operating submerged. She was gone then.

What followed was very businesslike. It illustrates the attitude the British have come to take toward the submarines because of their flagrant violations of every form of international law and decency. It is the attitude which any country obliged to fight against them will assume. To the British mind submarines must be exterminated just as one would exterminate a nest of poisonous vipers or a nest of hornets. People ask me how many submarines are being captured now. Very few. Many are destroyed, but few captured.

No sooner did the hull of the submarine show itself than we began to hammer her with our three inch guns. She opened fire, but her shots went wild, and in a few seconds she disappeared.

As fast as we could we ran over to where she had gone down. If the principles which obtain on land, in the air or in the navy at large existed in submarine warfare we would have gone over to see if we could rescue any of the wounded, but it was a U boat, and we simply made sure that there was nothing left of the craft.

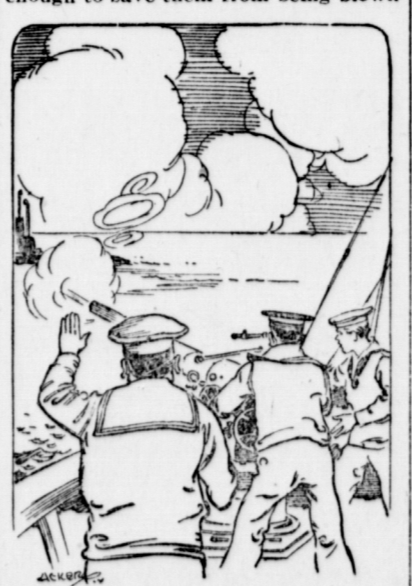

Some Bubbles, a Greasy Patch—That's All.

About where she went down a quantity of gas and air bubbles was rising, and the dirty patch of oil was once more in evidence. That was a pretty certain sign the career of one U boat was at an end, for the sea must have been pouring into her, and even though all her crew did not drown, once the salt water reached the storage batteries the chlorine would do the work.

But we are taking no chances. We circle round and round the spot and drop depth bombs—deadly machines. These are powerful explosives which are set so they will detonate at a certain depth. We first sounded the bottom and then set our bombs for ten fathoms. Suddenly I hear a cry from the boat behind us. One of the crew reaches out, grabs the collar of a man who has just dropped a depth bomb over the stern and yanks him unceremoniously into the cockpit. At a glance I see what has happened.

The engineer has stalled his motor just as the bomb is let go. It sinks slowly, and there is a slight momentum left in the submarine chaser. We hold our breath and watch in suspense, expecting any second to see our comrades hurled into the air among a mushroom of water and splinters.

There is no way to help them. Suddenly there is a muffled roar, a column of water rises to what seems a hundred feet and falls back, drenching every one who is near it. But our comrades are unhurt. The momentum of their boat has carried them just far enough to save them from being blown into atoms. That is the second narrow escape for our little squadron in this chase after a single submarine.

The End of the U Boat.

But our work is done. There is no doubt now about the fate of the U boat. It is not necessary for one of the depth bombs actually to come in contact with the submerged craft to destroy it. When under water a submarine's rigidity is multiplied. Its elasticity is next to nothing. An explosion as powerful as that of a depth bomb near it is almost certain to cripple it if not destroy it. It is the same principle as that which kills fish in a pond when dynamite is exploded beneath the surface of the water. The shock is sufficient to kill the men in the U boat, and so we glide along homebound secure in the knowledge that even if our gunfire did not finish the enemy the bombs have done the work. On the surface we notice swarms of dead fish.

We cut the Brass Hat free from the nets and listen to him curse, then return to Keppel's Head and "The Knut," where San had our drinks waiting for us. The subaltern, who had been interrupted in his story when we went out after the enemy, took it up where he had left off. It is characteristic of the Sea Slugs that nothing was said of the danger two of the boats had run, and if anybody felt proud of what we had accomplished he made no mention of it.

"As I was saying," remarked the subaltern, "Max Horton's experience when he sank the Moltke was a good deal like that of a friend of mine who is in the service, and it goes to show the truth of the statement that it's mostly luck gets a submarine. This chap I speak of had been cruising around for months and had never seen a hostile periscope, much less a submarine. He hadn't even found one of those spots of dirty oil that are becoming classic around the British Isles."

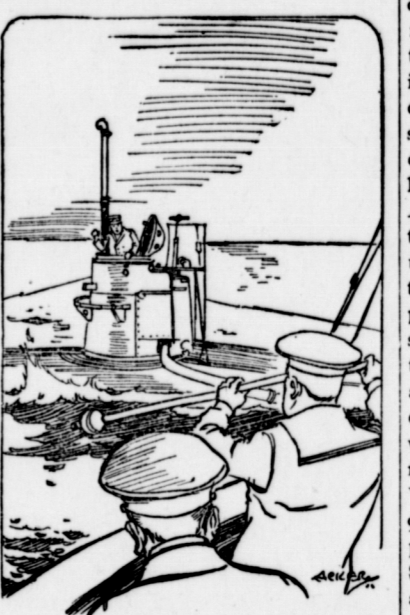

"Then one day, about noon, with the sun shining brightly, he was running along at top speed wondering whether there really was such a thing in the world as a German U boat, when suddenly, almost dead ahead, he saw something sort of wallowing in the sea."

"The bow gun was loaded, and the gunner saluted and said, 'Submarine off the starboard bow, sir. Shall I fire?'"

"No," ordered my friend. "It's probably one of our own. No such luck as for us to run into a German."

"With that the U boat sent a shell whistling past his ear, and he decided his luck was better than he had thought. His three inch began to spit, and the fire from the submarine stopped. A couple more shots from the chaser, and without any further sign of life on the U boat there suddenly was a big roar, a cloud of smoke, and she disappeared. They ran over to where she had been lying, but could not find a sign of her except for a few bubbles. These told of her fate. The last time I talked with that chap he hadn't seen a U boat since."

"Well, if our pal, D., had been as cautious as this fellow you tell about," said another subaltern, "he would have saved himself a lot of trouble and a bawling out. You boys all know D. He's mighty keen after U boats. He was cruising round off Peterhead last autumn, when all of a sudden he sighted one, only a few yards ahead, just awash. She didn't seem to show any signs of life.

"D. is a nifty chap, and to save time he decided to run full speed ahead and ram her instead of waiting to fire his guns. He crowded on every ounce of power he could and crashed down into the hull of the submarine."

"The shock as he struck her just abaft the conning tower knocked every one of his men off their feet and dented his own bow badly. When they picked themselves up there was one wild scramble to get forward with the lance bombs."

The lance bombs, I might explain, are bombs fastened to instruments somewhat like harpoons which stick to the side of the submarine and explode. Their chief characteristic is their liability to go off before you can throw them and blow the hurler up.

"Well," the subaltern continued, "D. himself had grabbed a bomb and was just about to hurl it when he turned sick and his knees gave way under him. A head had stuck out of the conning tower of the submarine, and an English voice yelled:

"What in h—s the matter with you? Are you trying to knock us loose from our steering post? Do you want a tow?"

"It was an E boat. Both the submarine and the chaser had to go in for a refit, and D. came uncomfortably near a court martial."

I have heard of many incidents like this, and it explains why the British submarine service hates the Sea Slugs. Every time any kind of a submersible shows itself above water somebody is likely to take a pot shot at it.

San got us another round.

The three remaining installments of this remarkable personal narrative will appear soon. They are as follows:

No. 2.—Life on the M. L.'s (Motor Launches).

Cruising at night in utter blackness, liable to be shot to pieces by friendly batteries if late in getting into port. Mine sweeping at Gallipoli and fighting off Turkish aeroplanes by rifle fire. The song of the Sea Slugs.

No. 3.—A Motor Launch Raid on the Belgian Coast.

In which the little submarine chasers crossed the mine fields by night, fired on the German submarines and land batteries and escaped across the mine fields once more. How the British monitors, which are named after American generals, bombarded the German coast until the Germans devised a method of locating them.

No. 4.—Experiences at Dover.

Aeroplanes bombard the barracks and town. German submarines laying mines in the harbor channel. What happened on a destroyer the day after I had dinner with the officers whom later I saw crushed and torn to death.

By Captain GEORGE L. KILMER.

THE assassination on June 28, 1914, of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne, quickly resulted in the outbreak of a world war. When Austria-Hungary pressed her demands upon Serbia for reparation Russia championed the little Slav nation. Germany declared that her Austro-Hungarian ally must have a "free hand" in dealing with Serbia, and the storm broke.

The first two years of the war, from August, 1914, to August, 1916, were marked by the subjugation of nearly all of Belgium, part of northern France, all of Serbia and the greater part of Russian Poland by the German armies. Russia conquered and then lost a large slice of Austrian territory in Galicia.

Following the invasion of Belgium in August, 1914, Great Britain and France entered the war as the allies of Russia.

The German march toward Paris, through Belgium and France, was effectively checked at the river Marne early in September, 1914, and in the weeks following the opposing lines in France and Belgium were established practically where they remained for the next two years.

Italy entered the war in May, 1915, and attacked Austria by land, east and northeast of Venice. The first year of the war saw the fall of Warsaw and the extension of the German front to the Dvina river, midway between Warsaw and Petrograd. In 1916, the second year of the war, the Germans attacked with great force the French fortress of Verdun, but were unable to reduce it. This event was followed by a concerted drive by the French and British in northern France against the German lines along the Aisne and Somme rivers.

Throughout the first two years various local campaigns were inaugurated by the allies, notably for the capture of Constantinople (the Turks having joined the Teutonic powers late in 1914), with an expedition in Mesopotamia to support it. The move against the Turkish capital failed, and the forces were transferred to Greece to operate against the central powers in the Balkans, where the Bulgarians were fighting for Germany.

The greatest naval battle of the war, fought off Jutland in May, 1917, was a draw, and the large vessels have not taken decisive part in the progress of the war. In 1915 Germany started a system of drastic submarine warfare, primarily intended to blockade the ports of her foes. Belligerent and neutral alike were made to suffer in the submarine zones throughout 1915 and 1916, and an indirect result of Germany's naval policy was the entrance of the United States into the war.

Grounds For Allies' Optimism.

Almost at the close of the second year of the world war the British war minister, Lloyd George, speaking for the allies, said, "Victory is beginning to flow in our direction." It had been flowing in all directions whenever it flowed at all up to that time. So the third year of the conflict opened with optimism ruling in the camps of the allies. On the west front at the end of July, 1916, it was assumed that the French would hold on at Verdun, that the German line on the Somme and the Aisne was not impregnable and that the Russian drive headed by Brusiloff in Bukovina and eastern Galicia was proceeding with irresistible force toward the Stokhod and the Dniester.

Emphasis was given to the hopeful view by Italian success on both fronts in Austria. The great Austrian drive which began in April and aimed at the expulsion of invading armies from Trentino had been checked. This was a negative victory because the Austrian spoils had been heavy and the demand on Italian troops had interfered with Italy's aggressive movements in the south, where the objective of the Italians was Trieste. The fortified town of Goritz barred the way from the Isonzo river toward Trieste, and after a long and costly siege it fell on Aug. 9. Still further progress of the allied cause in the southeastern field laid fresh emphasis to Von Hindenburg's assertion that the war must be fought out in the east. Russia was making headway in Asia Minor, marching from bases in her home territory, with her armies backed up by her own fleet on the Black sea. This was really a strategic extension of her new line in Bukovina and Galicia.

Roumania Attacks German Rear.

As matters stood then, the third year opened with a serious outlook for Germany. Verdun was untaken, and the allies had stormed the third German line on the Somme front. Brusiloff's Russian column had indeed been checked on the Stokhod and Dniester, but its presence that far south on the road to Hungary compelled Austria to keep a strong force north of the Carpathian mountains. Then came a blow which lifted the hopes of the allies to the highest pitch—Roumania turned upon the Teutons. The situation at that time was as follows: The belligerents were at a deadlock on the Somme line, the Italians in Goritz, the supposed key to Trieste, and the allied column from Saloniki moving north into Macedonia to strike Bulgaria in the rear was making progress. For the moment it seemed the allies had the advantage in that zone where the decision was to be reached—the near east.

Between Two Fires.

It was alleged that Roumania would add 400,000 men to the enemies of Germany. Roumania's first move scored a tactical victory. Her troops crossed the frontier northward, into Transylvania, where they were joined by a Russian column, which marched westward, far off on the southeastern flank of the Germans on the Dniester.

Forcing the mountain passes, the Roumanians captured Kronstadt and Orsova, but the triumph was not for long. A column of Bulgars, Germans and Turks, led by Von Mackensen, crossed the Danube from the south into Roumania, taking 20,000 prisoners in the first blow. Almost simultaneously Van Falkenhayn's mixed army of Germans and Austrians drove down from the north upon the invading Roumanians, captured passes in their rear and destroyed their armies. Kronstadt was recaptured. By the middle of October the Roumanians were in full retreat back over their border on the north. On the south the Germans had captured the main Roumanian port of Constanza, forced the enemy to evacuate Cernavoda, on the Danube, and destroyed the bridge.

Collapse of Roumania.

With the exception of a weak support by her nearest ally, Russia, Roumania got no direct help. Early in November the allies launched a new grand attack on the Somme, and Franco-Servians attacked Monastir, on the southern front. But neither of these diversions checked German progress in Roumania. The northern column, coming down from Austria under Von Falkenhayn, moved southeast into Roumania and met a composite force of Bulgars, Turks and Germans which Von Mackensen was leading north-west, fifty miles west of the Roumanian capital, Bukharest. In vain Russia began a new drive in the Carpathians. The Roumanians, strong in numbers, but weak in resisting power, were overcome, and in the last week of 1916 the Teutons were in Bukharest.

America in the War.

Two events of sudden development in the third year of the war may have a deciding influence—namely, the entrance of the United States as an ally of the entente powers and the collapse of Russia's aggressiveness. During the early months of the year the submarine dispute between this country and Germany quieted down. A U boat brought the war into western Atlantic waters by sinking neutral ships off Nantucket shoals in October, but the German pledge to safeguard neutral lives was observed. On Dec. 12 Germany and her allies, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, proposed peace negotiations, naming the United States as one of the intermediaries. On the 18th President Wilson sent a note to all belligerents asking them to name their terms. Meanwhile the allies replied to Germany, declining a conference, and Germany replied to Wilson, evading the question of terms and putting off the discussion of permanent peace until the end of the war.

In January President Wilson revived interest in the subject of peace by outlining a plan for a peace league, making "peace without victory," "consent of the governed" and a "world Monroe doctrine" the fundamentals for a world peace. While the whole world was discussing this turn of affairs Germany informed neutrals on Jan. 31 that submarine warfare would be more ruthless than ever. Three days later the German ambassador was given his passports, and the president informed Congress of the break and its causes. Ambassador Gerard received his passports at Berlin Feb. 5, and on the 10th Germany, through the Swiss government, proposed negotiation of the new dispute. This the United States declined unless the new submarine order was withdrawn.

After Von Bernstorff sailed and Gerard was out of Germany the state department disclosed a German plot to involve the United States with Japan and Mexico. War measures followed rapidly. Congress expired March 4 without endorsing the president's "armed neutrality" policy. A special session of the new Congress was summoned to meet April 2, and meanwhile the president ordered armed guards placed on our merchant ships voyaging abroad. On April 6 Congress formally declared war. Then followed a conscription law to create armies, loans to the allies—one of $2,000,000,000 to the nation by the people—the dispatch of war vessels to Europe under command of Rear Admiral Sims; also of Major General Pershing, to prepare a base for the American contingent already represented on the firing line in France by a detachment bearing the Stars and Stripes, on May 25.

The Russian Setback.

During the efforts to secure a diplomatic peace Russia stood firm. The duma rejected Germany's proposals, and the imperial government endorsed Wilson's peace league note. Russian support of Roumania had never been strong and entirely dropped away in the winter. It seemed that Russia was powerless. A revolution in which the troops and their generals figured deposed the czar the middle of March, and there began a state of military indecision and inactivity while factions contended for political control at Petrograd.

Early in February the German retrograde began north of the Somme. Bapaume and Peronne, the goals of months of bloody struggles, yielded the middle of March to the allies led by Nivelle and Haig, and shortly the Germans turned and began to resist vigorously all along the front. "Special reasons" was Berlin's explanation of this great and masterly retreat. Further withdrawal was forced by British attacks on the Ypres salient and at Messines in May and June.

Western Entente Powers Pressed.

The entrance of the United States as an ally led to an announcement by British and French commissioners sent here for conference, among them Marshal Joffre, that the resources of England, France and Italy in men, money, food and munitions were at a low ebb, and Russia must be considered as virtually eliminated as an aggressive force. These frank disclosures caused surprise and deep anxiety on this side of the ocean, the more so because the ruthless U boat operations, which began in February, had been more destructive than expected by the allies, although their toll had fallen far short of Germany's estimate—1,000,000 tons per month. The destruction of freight ships varied from week to week during March, April and May, but the total was so great as to forebode disaster unless the evil was speedily suppressed.

The entente's money problem was quickly solved by affording heavy credits to pay for their supplies brought here. A commission, headed by Elihu Root, repaired to Russia to swing the weight of the United States on the side of the forces in authority who favor a continuance of the war on Germany. The response to calls for troops and immense war funds and the successful registry for the draft, followed by the safe arrival of a large expeditionary force in France, led to a reaction during June from the misgivings and uncertainties which had prevailed for weeks.

Notable among the closing events of the third year of war are the renewal of attacks upon the Austrian fronts by Italian and Russian armies. The Italian movement began early in June and had for its object the recovery of positions in the Trentino, which the Austrians had captured in their great spring drive of 1916. At the close of June the Italians suffered a severe check.

July opened with a strong Russian offensive on the line of the Dniester, aimed at Lemberg. This was a renewal in part of the great drive led by General Brusiloff one year before. Inspired by the presence on the field of a new Russian war minister, Kerensky, the army of General Korniloff, in front of Halicz, captured that position on the 10th, crossed the Dniester and marched toward Stry, taking Kalucz on the 13th and prisoners which raised the total captives in the campaign to about 30,000 men.

The long bruited cabinet upheaval in Germany took place on the 12th and resulted in the resignation of Chancellor Hollweg and the removal of Foreign Minister Zimmermann, who fostered the scheme to embroil the United States with Mexico and Japan. Hollweg's successor in office, Michaelis, has been ranked as a conservative on Germany's war policies. On the 16th the mobilization of the national guard, which will add 300,000 men to the federal armies, was begun.

Babies' Health Contest Draws Mothers to the State Fair

COMMISSIONER COHEN AND PRIZE CUP AND BABY.

You would guard your baby with your life, but how much better to guard it with your brain. One million babies are now entering on their first summer, and one out of every fifteen of these will die, according to medical statistics, from heat, poor nourishment and the wrong clothes. Do you want your baby to be one of the fifteen? If not, learn how to keep your little one from heat suffering, from the wrong food and from clothes that sap its little strength.

Through the examinations, mental and physical, the scoring of points both good and bad, the scientific object lessons and reading matter provided by the Babies' Health Contest at the Kentucky State Fair, which will be held this year the week of Sept. 10, thousands of mothers are enabled to judge just what dangers are threatening their babies, just what ills to remedy and just how to keep them in prime condition. If you had a hog, a horse or cow you would learn and know something of its care, because it is valuable. Isn't your baby worth more than horse or cow or pig? Is the query of those interested in the promotion of scientific baby care. They argue that, no matter how lovely, how dimpled, how pink and white and sweet it is, there may be disease or deformity lurking under this beauty, and this is an evil of which you should be forewarned.

Up to date mothers throughout Kentucky are not only entering this contest to find out about their babies, but are coming back year by year to mark the progress this knowledge has given them and the improvement it has made in their children.

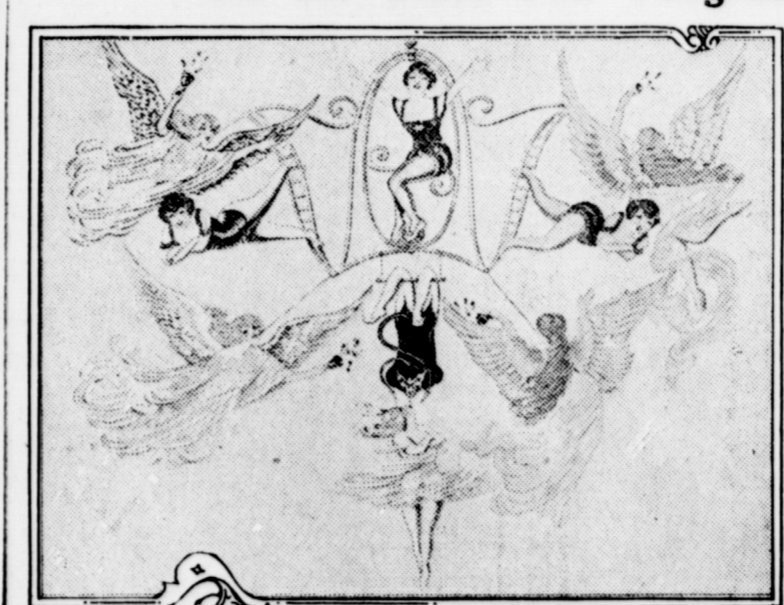

The contest this year, which is under the supervision of Mrs. John L. Woodbury, will be marked by a number of innovations, among which will be an elaborate display of knitted goods for babies and the giving away of patterns for these articles to the mothers desiring them.

Another attractive feature will be the spectacular parade which will follow the baby contest. This parade will be arranged as a beautiful spectacle in the Hippodrome pavilion and will show every little tot entered in the contest to the greatest advantage.

Entrance to the Babies' Health Contest is free and is open to babies between twelve and thirty-six months throughout the state of Kentucky.

Marvelous Entertainment Features On the State Fair Program

THE WHIRLING ERFORDS.

THE Kentucky State Fair is a valuable, instructive and progressive institution, but to the average person it is the amusements offered by the fair which constitute its greatest appeal.

In the Hippodrome exhibition, to be held nightly in the Live Stock Pavilion, there has been secured an entertainment which will outrival anything of the kind ever offered. The horse show which has heretofore distinguished the Kentucky State Fair will again be given in its entirety, and yet in addition to these features, which are well worthy a $2 admission fee in themselves, the management is providing the added and unrivaled glory of a world's championship five gaited saddle horse stake of $10,000, which will be offered in combination with both Hippodrome and horse show for the unprecedented admission price of 50 cents per person.

Some of the features will be: The Helen Leach-Wallin Trio in a grand aerial whirling exhibition which is said to be the most thrilling of its kind ever offered.

They will be followed by the Four Roeders, who are equilibrists of unbelievable skill and strength.

The Tasma Three are a trio of fetching young girls who present one of the most dangerous and sensational wire acts in the show business.

The Belclaire Brothers, daredevils of the arena, do a death defying stunt in which one makes a sensational dash down a steep incline in a miniature auto, loops a great arc and flies from the abandoned car on to the outstretched hands of his partner, who holds him aloft despite the terrific impact.

The Novel Brothers are described by their billing. Their specialty is clowning and music.

Olympia Des Vall & Co. is reputed to be one of the most beautiful and wonderful equine and canine exhibitions in America.

Holland and Dockrill offer sensational bareback riding and whirlwind driving with four magnificent Arabian horses and a gold Roman chariot.

Adela Von Ohl boasts but the one horse, but she is said to provide a whole show. Miss Von Ohl is regarded as the most noted cowgirl in America.

The piece de resistance of the roster will, it is claimed, be Erford's Marvelous Whirling Sensations. The keynote of this act is aerial whirling in picturesque array of angels and demons. One of the prettiest features is the "Dance of the Demons" and a finale on musical bells.

This entire wonderful program will be crowned and completed by Cavallo's great Concert Band of forty musicians. They are said to be richly uniformed.

The Kentucky State Fair Catalogue for the 1917 Fair, to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10, lists 6,000 prize ribbons, over 100 cups and trophies, valued at $5,000 or more, and a money award total of $50,000.

LEFT BEHIND

What a world of desolation,
Now they've taken you from me!
Taken you—"To save the nation!"
Over there in bleeding France,
Will they bring you back, by chance,
O my dear, across the sea?

What an empty house to care for
With no lad to come to me!
None to put the dinner there for—
Empty chair and empty bed
And that dread of you as—dead,
O my dear, across the sea!

You so tender—in the trenches!
How you used to pamper me!
Sun that scorches, storm that drenches—
Stubborn, though the guns are loud.
You will do your little bit
In that hell, I'm sure of it.
And your head will be unshaved;
And I know you'll dream of me;
And we'll win—and oh, I'm proud
Of my dear across the sea!
—By Ruth Wright Kauffman of the Vigilantes.

TO OBEY ALL ORDERS IS A RELIGION IN THE ARMY

Author, an Ex-soldier, Gives Some Sound and Kindly Advice to Drafted Boys.

By HAPSBURG LIEBE of the Vigilantes.

The writer of this little message to you boys has himself been an American soldier, and he is very proud of that fact. He knows army life, and he has seen red-hot fighting, and he knows the ways of officers.

I will put it like this: I will simply tell you what I would do if I were going into the army again. First, I would go into it with the rock firm intention of whipping Germany. I would look at the matter just like that. Save that I would certainly not discount the importance of anybody else, I would believe, so far as it were possible, that it was up to me—to me myself—to give Germany, the earth's pariah nation, the licking that is going to make all nations safe in a world democracy.

And the moment I was sworn into the service I would resolve that, no matter whether it suited me or not, I would obey orders very strictly and to the letter. That is the magic phrase—it is the religion of the army—obey orders. During my time in the army no man who lived up to that as his motto could go through with a term of enlistment without having a chance of being made a corporal or a sergeant or even a sergeant major. There are few commissioned officers who will overlook the enlisted man who never disobeys an order when promotion becomes necessary. And in this war men from the ranks are going to win commissions, boys. Remember that!

But every man of the company, or the troop, or the battery, or whatever it happens to be, cannot be advanced, you say. And you are right. But every man can be a soldier. How much there is bound up in those three little words! You'll know yourself after awhile. A real dyed in the wool American soldier, of course, is a gentleman too. * * * However, there is bound to be a chance for you to win your chevrons. I've never yet seen the man who tried hard for promotion, if he tried honorably, who came out of it a private. In spite of their bluff military manners, officers are just like you under the skin. They are quick to recognize, and they are most heartily glad to recognize, the golden qualities of a soldier and a gentleman in an enlisted man. Remember that too.

Also remember this: You are in the service to fight for your country and not to make soldiering a trade. You are going across the Atlantic for the purpose of whipping Germany and for no other reason. So long, boys, and good luck to you. And may the good God of our fathers bring you back to us!

FIRE CHIEF USES AIRPLANE.

Finds Air Route Is Much Quicker Than Old Methods.

The fire department chiefs of every city of this country have their eyes on Chief Louis Almgren of the San Diego (Cal.) fire department. Chief Almgren has discarded the horse and buggy and the automobile and now races through the air in an airplane when chasing fires, says Popular Science Monthly.

When a fire box is pulled in an outlying section, the chief jumps into his flying machine and is at the scene of the blaze before the horse drawn equipment gets around the first corner or the fireboat is going full steam ahead. His is the first aerial fire fighting company in the world. In test flights made with the new airplane, which is a one-hundred horsepower machine of the hydroplane type, trips that ordinarily took the fireboats from twenty to thirty minutes to make were made by airplane in from two to five minutes, counting the necessary time in getting the engine started.

Desperate Efforts to Be a Slacker. A Pennsylvania man, "No. 258," after passing physical examination, held up man for watch, blackjacked old woman, stole a horse and fought police, which he thinks will keep him out of the army for awhile.

A Fine Place to Roost.

After going twenty miles in his auto the other night, a Sayville (N. Y.) family discovered two hens roosting on the car radiator. The biddies stayed there until they returned home.

Between the Devil, Etc.

Defense of man sued for breach of promise is that he did not want to wed and be called a slacker.

How to Develop a Good Memory.

In an article about James Horgan and his great memory in the September American Magazine, a writer says:

"Attention comes first," Horgan told me. "When you meet a man, look squarely into his face for a second and forget everything else in the world. Etch his features into your brain: you can do it if you will keep practicing."

"It isn't enough to catch a name so that you can pronounce it. You must learn to see it."

You must visualize it so that it appears in your brain as clearly as if it were printed on paper before your eyes. A trained memory is packed full of double exposures—to use a photographer's term.

More failures are due to lack of will than to lack of strength.
